GIVE LOYALTY TO RUSSIANS

A mass meeting of Russians and Ukrainians held at Coleman on Sunday afternoon for the purpose of organizing an anti-Fascist and anti-Nazi organization, was attended by about four hundred. Speakers included Mayor E. Williams, of Blairmore; Tom Uphill, of Fernie; T. McCloy, of Coleman; and others. G. Armstrong, of Hillcrest, acted as chairman.

Resolutions were adopted, pledging loyalty of The Pass Ukrainians and Russians to M. Kalinin, president of the All-Russian Soviet in the fight against the Nazis.

A resolution to Prime Minister King asked for the return of property of the Ukrainian Farmer and Labor Temple Association which was confiscated by the government at the outbreak of war. This resolution also asked the release of twenty leaders who have expressed themselves as anti-Fascist and anti-Nazi, interned shortly after the outbreak of war.

R. G. Menzies, who last week resigned as prime minister of Australia, will be minister of defence co-ordination in the new cabinet of Prime Minister A. W. Eddien.

Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Currie and daughter Violet, of Crossfield, are holidaying at Vancouver. Miss Currie will remain in Vancouver to accept a position at the Crofton House girls' school, where she took up duties September 1st. She recently graduated from the Christopher Robin kindergarten, where she took a teacher training degree.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Eleanor D'Amico, Olga Terlecki, Mary McDougall and May Dudley will be leaving for the Calgary normal school on September 15th.

John Nerhenik is a patient in the Bellevue hospital.
Julius Goldberg is a visitor to Lethbridge.

Alice Greener has returned from an extended visit to the Pacific coast. Lloyd and Horace Duke came down from Fernie Saturday to spend the week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Duke.

Mrs. J. Kerr and children have returned to Edmonton after a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. R. Crichton. They were accompanied by Mrs. A. Chrysler.

Mrs. H. Corbett and daughter Nellie have returned from a visit to Rocky Mountain House.

Martin Bella and Louis Gorik were visitors to Lethbridge on Monday.

Mrs. J. Wons and sons, accompanied by Nick Kontras and Mr. and Mrs. W. Cerney, of Coleman, visited Creston on Monday.

Joe Stobbs has returned from a visit with his brother at Vancouver. He travelled by plane via Lethbridge.

The marriage of Lillian, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Makin, of Hillcrest, to Charles Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Leedham, of Lethbridge, took place in the Hillcrest United church on Sunday last, Rev. W. H. Irwin officiating. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, robed in a white sheer floor-length gown, her long veil being held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of butterfly roses. Mrs. J. W. Leedham, of Lethbridge, as bridesmaid, chose a floor-length gown of dusty rose tulle, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The groom was attended by Norman Hamilton, of Lethbridge. Miss Iris May, of Blairmore, was organist, while Mrs. H. Stobbs, of Hillcrest, presided at the organ for the solo, "I love you truly," beautifully rendered by Miss May. The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the table being centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. Following a short honeymoon, the happy couple will take up residence in Lethbridge, where the groom is employed.

The Hillcrest skating rink has undergone its annual overhauling. Repairs became necessary because of certain children who take pleasure out of destroying fences, etc. The repair work was performed by a team of volunteer workers under the direction of Felix D'Amico, Joe Chan and Rudolph Rosal.

A shower was held in the Catholic hall on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Lillian Makin, whose wedding was to take place on Sunday. Mrs. J. Craig, Mrs. R. Anderson and Mrs. J. McDade entertained the large number of friends to an enjoyable game of whist, at which prize winners were Mrs. A. Civiterose, first; Mrs. R. Brown, second, and Mrs. R. Gardiner.

LETHBRIDGE QUARTETTE TO VISIT THE PASS

A special treat is promised those who hear the Crusaders' Instrumental Quartette this week end. The party from Lethbridge will be in charge of Salvation Army meetings at Coleman on Sunday, September 7th.

This being Harvest-Festival Sunday, the hall will be suitably decorated with flowers and vegetables, and the music, singing and message will be in keeping with the harvest season. There will be two meetings on Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

On Saturday night the group will be visiting The Pass towns, and (weather permitting) will hold street meetings.

A cordial invitation is given one and all to attend the "Army" on Sunday.

Sam Darcy, Communist candidate for governor of California in 1944, and more recently secretary of the Pennsylvania Communist Party, was convicted recently of perjury. He stated his birthplace as New York City, whereas he was born in Russia, and his real name was Samuel Dardock.

So many people are getting fed up on the scap serial programmes that a united conference of three W. I's from the southern part of the province passed a resolution at a recent meeting asking the C.B.C. if there was not some sort of programme that would be more interesting and more educational for children than the "soap drama." More power to 'em.

Benny Smith and Jimmy Woods are both wearing the smile that won't wear off. This week Ben had word his mother's home had been bombed during the seven straight night blitz that Jerry put on over Liverpool. Luckily the family had all gone to the local shelter for the night. The canary was blown out along with the windows (a second time) and cage filled with glass. Each time the canary came up singing, "Come on, Hitler, I can take it." Well, that canary may be "yellow," but it sure has "what it takes." But the family are not taking any chances on Hitler calling and leaving his visiting card for a third time, so have moved into the suburbs of Liverpool. You bet, canary and all—Ferne Free Press.

FERNIE MINERS MAKE APPEAL

Recognition of occupational diseases, compensation of men forced by injury or occupational disease to accept jobs at lower rates of pay, rehabilitation of men suffering from injury or occupational diseases, lump sum payments in addition to funeral expenses when a workman was killed at work, and institution of an appeal board, were among highlights of the recommendations at a sitting of a commission at Nelson inquiring into the operation of the workmen's compensation act in British Columbia affecting miners.

SPECIAL CABLE FROM LONDON TO FREE FRENCH

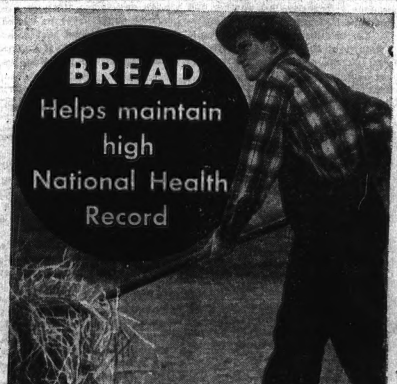

On the eve of the allied victory in Syria, General de Gaulle addressed a stirring appeal to all Frenchmen in Africa, but the enemy, who had been informed of the fact beforehand, jammed this broadcast so that it could not be heard in Canada.

"We are fully aware," said General de Gaulle, "of what Hitler can still accomplish. The path which we Free French have chosen at the outset as the only honorable one, we now find to be also the surest. Elated by the assurance of ultimate victory, we shall follow this path to its unflinching end. Whatever may be our trials or sorrows, we shall remain in this conflict all our country and the world are free. France will be on the winning side."

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Sessler left by Sunday morning's bus to visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. Sommers at Castle-gar, B.C.

HEAVY ORDERS FROM BRITAIN FOR CANADIAN BACON

Winnipeg.—Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced in a statement here that an agreement has been reached with the British ministry of food for the Dominion to deliver 600,000,000 pounds of Canadian bacon at a price of $22.15 for 112 pounds, grade A, with free, f.o.b. Canadian seabor.

The agreement is for one year beginning October 1.

Mr. Gardiner pointed out that this agreement was on a minimum basis and not on a maximum basis as was the previous agreement. This means Canada must supply at least the required poundage and probably more.

The agreement, which Mr. Gardiner said already had been signed by officials of the British food ministry, calls for a price increase of 25 per cent. over the second year agreement for delivery of 425,000,000 pounds which Mr. Gardiner said he expected would be "completed a little before October."

The agriculture minister's statement:

"An agreement for the third year of the war has been completed with the British ministry of food for the delivery of 600,000,000 pounds of Canadian bacon at a price of 100 shillings ($22.15) per 112 pounds. A grade with free, f.o.b. Canadian seabor. This is an increase in price of 20 shillings per 112 pounds over the price provided for in the second year agreement, although this price was revised by the five shillings for half the contract quantity of 425,000,000 pounds.

The price of 100 shillings provided for is slightly in excess of the present price being paid for bacon by the British ministry, which is made up from 58 shillings being provided by the British ministry, supplemented by a payment of $2.50 per 100 pounds by the Canadian government.

The quantity under the new agreement has been increased by 175,000,000 pounds and will require, average weekly shipments of 11,000,000 pounds. The total quantity of 600,000,000 pounds represents the product of approximately 5,250,000 hogs, which is greatly in excess of total annual hog marketing in Canada for any year prior to the war.

The new agreement becomes effective on completion of the shipment under the present agreement of 425,000,000 pounds.

Canada's Agricultural Supplies Board set up soon after the outbreak of war to facilitate the maximum export of agricultural products to Great Britain, had anxious eyes on western grain fields to-day.

Since the war began, especially of course, may be the factor determining whether overseas shipments of bacon, cheese and eggs are impeded by the present feed shortage in the eastern provinces, a recent official said.

"Until the complete statistics are in from the west we won't know just where we stand in the way of feed supplies," this spokesman told the Canadian Press.

Freedom Was Short-Lived

Italian Seaman Who Escaped From Internment Camp Is Captured

Stanbridge Station, Que.—Tullio Festa, 28-year-old, escaped prisoner of war, was captured by a Canadian customs officer near this village a few miles from the United States border.

His captor, E. Campbell of the customs service, turned Festa over to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who were reported to have taken the internee to Montreal.

Festa, an Italian seaman, escaped from an internment camp near Montreal while working with a fatigue squad of about three dozen men.

Campbell was reported to have captured the swarthy internee while working on his farm on his day off. Mrs. Campbell said there had been a brief struggle but neither Festa nor his captor were hurt.

Goebbels Speaks Again

Berlin.—Propaganda Minister Goebbels claimed in an article prepared for the next issue of the publication Das Reich, that "extensive camouflage of industrial and traffic facilities" had been carried out in a number of unspecified cities in areas endangered by air attacks.

Another Ship Launched

West Coast Canadian Port.—Christened H.M.C.S. Vancouver in honor of the British Columbia seaport, another grey ship of war slid down the ways from a shipbuilding plant here.

New Wave-Length Crasher

Strange Voice Gives Germany's Powerful Station Plenty Of Trouble

London.—Germany's powerful radio station Deutschland tried desperately in a recent night to duck a new, mysterious wave-length crasher, but the mocking voice had the last say.

The Nazis slammed one record on top of another, sometimes beginning one before the other finished, in order not to give the anti-Nazi voice a chance to interrupt.

When the news announcer after a rapid-fire delivery blurted, "and that ends the news," the voice was clearly heard in Britain shouting:

"You will conquer yourself to-morrow."

When Nazi war reporters' stories were given, the announcer paused for a badly needed breath. The voice crashed in:

"You will conquer yourself to-morrow."

Trying to explain the voice Deutschland said:

"The Bolsheviks tried to tune themselves in on our radio station. Such methods are not a novelty. We used them in the Polish campaign. Counter-measures are being applied against the Russians."

Opinion Of New Zealander

Pilot Thinks Commander Bader Got Messerschmitt Before Ball-Out

London.—Wing Commander Douglas Bader, highest flying command of the so-called Canadian squadron, may have shot down a Messerschmitt 109 before he was forced to bail out over northern France Aug. 9, the air ministry news service said.

A New Zealand sergeant-pilot who was flying in the wing commander's section reported that Bader announced over the radio telephone he was going down to attack several Messerschmitts 5,000 feet below and ordered the pilots to pick one each.

The New Zealander said: "As I crossed over the top of the wing commander to get at my victim I saw his opponent half roll and fire away and I think the wing commander followed him down."

The squadron with which Bader was flying got four Messerschmitts in the engagement.

The wing commander broke one of his artificial limbs in making his parachute landing.

He was dropped by parachute for him during a Royal Air Force sweep over France. There has been no indication from German sources so far as to whether it reached him.

No Doubt About Campaign

Organized To Hinder Aid To Opponents Of Hitler Says Roosevelt

Washington.—President Roosevelt declared that there was no doubt a campaign had been organized to spread rumors, distortions, half truths and falsehoods in an effort to sabotage the program of aid to opponents of Hitlerism.

He made that charge at a press conference after being asked to comment on reports of the misuse of lease-lend funds.

When he requested particulars the President was told by a reporter that he had read that Britons had run up big bills at a Washington restaurant.

Certainly, the President asserted, that never was charged to lease-lend. It was then that he spoke of an organized campaign of sabotage, and added that the instance cited was probably a very good example.

He said he did not want it said he was denying allegations of misuse of lease-lend funds because "the emphasis should be elsewhere—on what he called the campaign to spread vicious rumors, distortions and falsehoods."

Request From Veterans Philadelphia.—The veterans of foreign wars urged President Roosevelt to outlaw jurisdictional strikes in United States defense industries and recommended that draft-age workers who participate in such strikes lose their deferment and be called into military service.

Work For War Prisoners Melbourne.—The Commonwealth government was reported to be considering a plan for the employment of enemy war prisoners outside the internment camps as a result of requests of farmers and private industry for labor.

Russia Warns Japan New York.—The BBC in a broadcast heard by NBC, said Soviet Russia had warned Japan that any attempt to halt the flow of supplies into the Far East of Japan would be regarded as an unfriendly act.

Court Starts Work

Has Power To Impose Death Sentence For Sabotage

Vichy.—French civilian watchmen, conscripted to mount guard over the railways around Paris, will pay with their lives for any sabotage in their assigned sectors, it was ruled as authorities strove to stem a tide of disorders.

A special summary court with power to sentence to death all Communists and anarchists in the occupied zone began functioning four days after its creation by decree of the Vichy government.

The court's work will dovetail with that of German occupation authorities, who have announced they would take care of the Communists themselves. It will have jurisdiction in the seven occupied departments and will enjoy the same court martial status as military and naval tribunals of the unoccupied zone.

Offered To Canadian Army

Winnipeg Man Has Invention For Saving Oil And Gas

Winnipeg.—C. Nelson Pogue, of Winnipeg, who invented a carburetor which he claimed would take a standard motor car 200 miles on a gallon of gasoline, and which was later reported stolen, announced that he and his associates have offered two inventions for saving oil and gasoline to the Canadian army.

He said he offered ordinance officials in Ottawa a carburetor that will increase mileage per gallon almost 100 per cent. and an oil reclaiming which he said would effect a material saving in oil consumption.

RAIDS ON AXIS SHIPPING CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

Cairo.—Heavy raids on Axis-held Tripoli in Libya and a renewed assault on Axis shipping in the Mediterranean were announced by Middle East headquarters.

Masses of debris were hurled high in the air and fires developed in the Tripoli port and power station during a Royal Air Force raid, the communiqué disclosed.

In the raid on shipping, one Axis vessel was left sinking and another was damaged by a direct hit in a heavy bombing attack carried out by the R.A.F. Exact location and tonnage of the ships was not indicated.

Bombing likewise was raised and bombs were dropped on railway sidings and an enemy encampment.

Aircraft of the fleet air arm attacked Bardia and starting fires among the ships and starting fires among the gasoline dumps.

Raiding Italian planes were chased from Malta to Sicily, a communiqué said. Three were shot down. Several other Italian fighters were badly damaged in that action and an 8-60 was shot down by fighters off Famagusta, Cyprus.

The communiqué said that in Iran the R.A.F. continued to provide protection for the forward troops. Pamphlets were dropped on key points explaining the reason for the British-Russian entry into that country.

NEW WINSTON

Determination to achieve "the final destruction of the Nazi tyranny" was voiced in a joint declaration by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. They were reported also to have sent a joint letter to Josef Stalin, expressing their admiration for the Russian fight against German aggression and their intention of continuing full aid.

Exports Have Increased

Statistics Branch Issues Report On Wheat And Flour

Winnipeg.—Canadian wheat and flour exports for the crop year ended July 31, 1941, amounted to 290,416,886 bushels, compared with 192,674,368 bushels the previous year, the statistics branch of the board of grain commissioners announced.

Flour shipments amounted to 10,288,827 barrels and were largest since 1928-29, while wheat shipments during May, 1941, totalled 36,805,411 bushels—highest for that month in the record of the board of grain commissioners.

Eight Different Designs

New Issue Of War Savings Stamps Has Been Authorized

Ottawa.—The war savings committee has authorized the issue of a new series of war savings stamps consisting of eight different designs depicting Canada's armed forces.

The individual designs will show aviators, a soldier, a tank, a sailor, a destroyer, an anti-aircraft gun, nurses and a Wellington bomber. The new stamps will be on sale Sept. 8.

Regimental Numbers

Will Be Allocated To Volunteers In Canadian Women's Army Corps

Ottawa.—On enrolment, volunteers in the Canadian Women's Army Corps will be allotted regimental numbers prefaced by the letter "W," defence headquarters said.

The first figure of the group will indicate the military district in which the individual is serving, and provision is made for an allotment of 1,000 for each district.

More Parachute Troops

Washington.—An army announcement disclosed a speed-up in training of parachute troops. It said a third parachute battalion was being formed ahead of schedule. The unit, at full strength, will bring the parachute force to more than 1,500 men, all volunteers.

Washington Has New Regulation For War Orders

Washington.—A new regulation provides that American manufacturers must accept orders for war supplies for the United States, Canada, Russia, China and certain other countries, even though such acceptance will delay or prevent deliveries of civilian goods.

E. R. Stettinius, defense priorities director, issued the regulation in a broad revision of priority rules designed to expedite the armament program.

In the past, if a manufacturer accepted an order which carried a government priority, or preferential rating he was required to fill it ahead of other orders with a lower rating or none. However, he was not compelled to accept the order if he did not choose to.

The requirement forcing manufacturers to take orders was first included in a regulation placing pig iron under priority control, but it now is extended to all manufacturers, producers, distributors and dealers in the United States.

Officials declined to say what will be done in case a company refuses to accept an order falling within the defense category, but it was indicated that a persistent refusal might result in cutting off his supplies for other orders.

Would Help With Harvest

Royal Navy Sailors In New Brunswick Volunteer For Work

Saint John, N.B.—Men of the Royal Navy in port volunteered to give up all or part of two weeks' furlough to help New Brunswick farmers harvest their crops.

They made their offer voluntarily, and in appreciation of similar work being done by Canadian troops in Britain, when they heard that farmers of this province were greatly handicapped in harvesting their crops because of a serious shortage of agricultural labor.

Antonescu Issues Decree

Berlin.—The Roerens Zeitung's Balkan correspondent reported a decree by Gen. Ion Antonescu for Rumania that 30 Jewish and five non-Jewish Communists be shot for every act of sabotage in Rumania attributable to Communists.

Decision Is Favored

Buenos Aires.—The foreign minister locks with favor upon Canada's decision to send W. F. A. Turgeon, chief justice of Saskatchewan, here as the Dominion's first minister to Argentina, it was announced. A reply to that effect had been sent to Ottawa.

To Relieve Housing Shortage

Government-Built Hostels For Women Workers Being Considered

Ottawa.—Possibility of erecting hostels to house women workers in crowded Canadian cities as a further means of relieving housing shortages has been under consideration for some time by Wartime Housing Limited, it was learned.

It was understood the government-owned and operated company is prepared to build the hostels if it receives assurances social service agencies will assume housekeeper and catering duties.

Ready For Duty

London.—Britain's latest battleship, the Duke of York, launched by the Queen last year, was reported as ready to take her place with the fleet. It was understood shipyard men working day and night shifts have completed arming of the 35,000-ton battleship, a sister ship of the King George V. and the Prince of Wales.

Many Ground Crewmen For The Air Force

Ottawa.—The 20,000th man has just completed his training in the ground crew trade schools of the Royal Canadian Air Force. The schools, now working at peak capacity, are pushing on with training of thousands more.

These 20,000 men now are serving on a wide range of duties in Canada and overseas, servicing and repairing aircraft, cooking, disciplinary work, administrative work and in other capacities. They make it possible for others to fly the training and battle aircraft.

Group Capt. D. C. M. Hume, head of the directorate of technical training in the air force, calls his men "buddies" and finds it hard to carry all the varied trade schools under his direction in his memory. He has charge of all training except air training which is under a separate directorate.

The majority of the 20,000 men passed through the technical training school at St. Thomas, Ont., which, Group Capt. Hume said, is the largest institution of its kind anywhere.

Before the war, the Royal Air Force had a school of comparable size, but it took younger boys in and undertook to give them a general education as well as trade training in order to fit them for civilian life on completion of eight years' service with the air force.

The St. Thomas school which takes a new class in and sends a class out every week reaching its peak production in June.

With many flying training schools of the British Commonwealth air training plan getting their staffs and going into operation some thought technical training for ground crew would drop off as fewer would be needed. Just about that time, however, came the decision to man the 25 Canadian squadrons which are to be formed from Canadian air force graduates of the air training plan for action overseas with Canadian ground crews.

So the standing order is still full speed ahead with operations in the ground crew schools.

Cost Of Living Bonus

Is To Be Paid To Members Of Federal Civil Service

Ottawa.—Effective from Aug. 1 a cost of living bonus will be paid to the vast majority of members of the federal public service—those earning less than $2,100 a year and all manual workers—it was announced.

Civil service officials estimated that about 55,000 Dominion government employees would now come to coast with quality for bonus payments.

Meanwhile a labor department spokesman estimated that altogether "no less than 500,000 industrial employees and perhaps as many as 750,000" now receive or will receive cost-of-living bonuses based on order-in-council P.C. 7440.

No accurate figures on the extent of bonus arrangements have been compiled by the department, this informant said but he said he was convinced his estimate was not too high.

For Victory

RECOMMENDS RESTRICTION ON INSTALMENT CREDIT SALES

One of the main speakers addressing the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association convention held at Quebec recently was the Hon. J. L. Halsey, minister of finance in the federal cabinet. Among various topics discussed by the minister was that of credit and its re-action to Canada's war effort. Here is what he said on the matter:

The second objective I have in mind is the restriction of instalment credit sales, a problem which has been much in the public eye this week. For the past six or eight months we in the department of finance have been giving careful study to this problem and on several occasions have urged the desirability of the adoption of more conservative credit terms by the manufacturers, merchants and financial organizations operating in this field. Here again the public would, I am sure, respond if they clearly understood the governing considerations. In my opinion, these considerations are twofold—first, in time of growing shortage of materials, plant facilities and labor power, any device which provides an undue incentive to the purchase of consumers' durable goods sets up directly an abnormal competition with war effort and tends to retard that effort. In the second place, unduly liberal credit terms encourage people of moderate means to take on commitments which they may not be able to meet when the present period of industrial activity is over. Consequently any such widespread retarding of the future will aggravate post-war difficulties, whereas what we need is present deferment of purchasing power with a view to providing support to employment and industry. In the post-war period. Of course, I do not recommend complete elimination of instalment selling nor even punitive terms of credit which might work unfairly as between different income groups in the population. What I urge is that the business interests involved should impose conservative rather than liberal credit terms, increasing required down payment and shortening the period over which payments may run, and that the public should refrain from the temptation to mortgage their future earnings unduly. I frankly admit that direct control of the production of consumers' durable goods will probably be necessary to secure the restriction that will be necessary, but voluntary reduction will probably always be a necessary supplement to such controls and in the early stages should probably be relied upon as far as possible.

BELLEVUE FLOWER SHOW IS BIG LABOR DAY ATTRACTION

The annual exhibition of the Bellevue and District Horticultural and Industrial Society on September 1st was a usual big attraction for the people of the district. While entries were not quite as many as in former years, yet many of the exhibits were of a class far superior and brought forth most favorable comment from the various judges. Particularly outstanding were the school arts, pansies and giant pumpkins, the largest of the latter, grown by N. Spooner, tipping the scales at over 50 pounds.

Owing to health ban, the side programme, for the kiddies outdoor sports had to be eliminated, hence the absence of children 17 and under from the show.

Prize winners were as follows, arranged in order of first, second and third:

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. B. Windrosa)

Edmonton, Sept. 2.—Independent members of the provincial legislature met in conference in this city last week and discussed various matters connected with plans for a convention to be held in November, and also plans for the next session of the assembly.

It was decided that the convention will be held in Edmonton on November 22nd, and that the whole future of the Independent movement will be brought up for discussion.

Strong criticism was voiced by the members of the attitude of Premier Aberhart toward the "Union Now" movement between Great Britain and the United States, and a resolution was passed calling on the premier to resign his position.

Other resolutions passed supported the plans for a joint conference this month of representatives of the bondholders and the committees of the cabinet to discuss proposals for refunding the public debt of the province. The meeting placed itself on record as favoring acceptance of the proposal of Finance Minister Hiley for transfer of income tax and corporation tax revenues to the Dominion during the war in exchange for a federal grant equal to the amounts involved.

Severe condemnation was expressed, by resolution, of the government's programme for rural road construction and maintenance, and it was pointed out that these rural roads are in a disgraceful state with more than 2,000 wooden bridges still doing service, some of them dangerous to traffic.

The meeting was presided over by Mayor Davison, of Calgary, with J. Percy Page as secretary. A committee was named to organize the fall convention with Alfred Speakman, M. L. A., of Red Deer, as committee chairman.

There are striking indications that now Premier Aberhart has set up his thick smoke screen by means of his four blasts in the press on "monetary reform" and criticism of the plan for collaboration between the United States and Great Britain, he is scheming to start another campaign against the banks.

His four blasts have been open criticism and opposition to Canada's plans for financial stability and of any movement to bring about collaboration of a closer character between the great English speaking nations of the world. Incidentally he has cast unfounded aspersions against the good reputation of Canada's Victory Bonds also.

The premier needs a new talking point as a battle cry for the private one-sided war which he likes to pretend to be always waging against the "money powers." It is rumored that he is thinking seriously of renewing his attacks on the banks for this reason. One commentator thinks Mr. Aberhart has been plotting a whole series of radio and newspaper blasts on this subject while he has been at the Pacific coast during the last month. Slandering the banks is much easier and safer than attacking Canada's bonds.

It is thought in some quarters that a lot of the propaganda Premier Aberhart has been issuing lately, about in a disgraceful state with more than 2,000 wooden bridges still doing service, some of them dangerous to traffic.

Many observers doubt his sincerity in meeting the bondholders and it is reported that he washed his hands of the matter when it was discussed in the government circles, saying "It's Low's baby, it can't do any harm." Whether this is true or not, it is considered certain that any arrangement with the bondholders that would be worth while and satisfactory to people of sound judgment would rob Aberhart of one of his chief opportunities to attack the money interests and spoil his propaganda blasts in preparation for keeping in office, and for this reason there is doubt about his going through sincerely with the bondholders' proposals, or of his agreeing to any compromise.

TO CALL CONFERENCE ON TOURIST TRAFFIC

A Dominion-wide conference on tourist traffic will be held in Ottawa, October 20-22, it was announced by Walter P. Zeller, executive assistant to Hon. J. T. Thorson, minister of national war services, today, following a meeting of the newly appointed advisory committee on tourist industry. Representatives from the nine provinces, the Canadian association of tourist and travel bureaus, the transportation companies, chambers of commerce, boards of trade, and other important organizations interested in the development of the tourist industry will be invited to attend.

This conference is to be held because of the increased importance to Canada's war effort of the tourist industry, particularly as a vital feature in the Dominion's financial economy. Methods by which tourist traffic may be developed and the fullest possible co-ordination effected between all agencies engaged in the tourist industry, will be carefully discussed.

Before the next meeting of the advisory committee on tourist industry, it is expected that an additional member, probably a French-speaking Canadian, will be appointed to it. The minister of national war services is now giving consideration to a number of recommendations which have been made in this matter.

"Why didn't you hang them up?"

"Because I was in 'em."

A local wife was superintending the dusting of her husband's library. "Careful, Jane, how you handle those books. Some of them go back to George the First."

Maid: "Yes, madam, and if I'm not mistaken, one or two of them should go back to the public library."

THE CATCH—One evening Hitler was catching up on his reading. He picked up the Bible, not knowing what it was, and read with avid interest the story of the Red Sea. He hurried a storm trooper to get one of Germany's leading rabbis out of a concentration camp. When the rabbi old man arrived, Hitler wasted no words. "Do you think the miracle of the Red Sea could be repeated?"

"Could be."

"Well," said Hitler, "I could use a miracle like that now. Suppose we fix everything up for your people—cut out the concentration camps and the persecution—would you play ball with me?"

The old man thought for a minute. "I know the ancient words, of course, but I would have to have the wand the Israelites used."

"Is it still in existence?"

"Oh, yes."

"Where is it now?"

The rabbi smiled: "In the British Museum."

There are more than ten times as many people in the United States as there are in Canada. In terms of potential manpower, Canada's 300,000 on active service would be equivalent to a strength of about 3,000,000 in the United States' armed forces—without taking account of a reserve army for home defence.

Tennis balls just made in England have been safely delivered to Switzerland for this year's national championships there. How they got through will be a secret until the ball is over. Their makers are actually sending more balls overseas than in peace time. Sportmen in no fewer than fifty-one territories are getting balls for tennis and squash from them today, and they have produced an entirely new ball for U.S.A.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Polish officials announced in London formation of a Polish legion of between 60,000 and 90,000 men will soon be completed in Russia.

Mrs. Irene M. Spay, former economics professor at the University of Toronto, has been appointed to the wartime prices and trade board as economist, the board announced.

China will conclude the Sino-Jap war on its own terms, Chao-Ying Shih, Chinese consul-general from Ottawa, told the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs.

The British Broadcasting Corporation said three British super-battle ships, the Jellicoe, Beattie and Duke of York will be put into service in the autumn.

Air Minister McEwen announced that in the Middle East campaign airmen of the Royal Australian Air Force have destroyed 11 enemy aircraft for each British plane lost.

Three ships arrived from Syria at Marseilles, France, bringing the number of French troops repatriated since the armistice to more than 10,000.

The wartime prices and trade board at Ottawa warned that all instances of illegal salting of bread will be promptly investigated and, where warranted, prosecution will follow.

Co-operation of members of the various boards of directors in Canada is being urged by the Canadian Active Army has been asked by Defence Minister J. L. Ralston.

Labor Minister Ernest Bevin told Britain's workers "greater output now might shorten the war by months" and urged renewed production effort to demonstrate admiration for Russian resistance in a practical way.

Grow Beards In Answer To Barber Shortage In Britain

The beard may be another sign of victory in Britain.

Shortage of barbers in the rural districts, and scarcity of razor blades, are having an effect. Many men, especially in the country areas, are letting their beards grow.

Many farm workers find it hard to get a shave. They work until 7:30 p.m. and early closing of barber shops and short staffs mean difficulties in the way of getting a shave. The mayor of one town suggested that all farm workers grow beards. He thought it would save them a lot of trouble.

His Only Difficulty

Famous Poet Very Often Could Not Think Of Words

James Whitcomb Riley once attended a party at which were present a number of would-be literary people. One budding author, a young woman whose success had been considerably less than sensational, was bemoaning the poor prices paid in the literary field. "Of course, Mr. Riley," she said somewhat enviously, "you have no reason to complain. You must be a very rich man. I understand you get $1 a word. 'Ye-es, madam,' drawled the poet, 'I do. But sometimes I sit all day and can't think of a single word.'

Scotland Makes Use Of Roof On Waverly Market

Clippings from the Edinburgh Evening Dispatch, contain pictures of wartime vegetable gardens in the Scottish capital, one of them on the roof of Waverly Market. The crop is to be handed over to hospitals. Another picture shows mince-women receiving a vanload of garden produce collected from various centres about the city. The van was given by Mrs. Andrew Carnegie.

Spices To Be Scarce

Many Will Be Dear And Some Quite Unobtainable

This is going to be a real spicy time. To prepare for the worst, which is that on account of the war there is a shortage of spices and flavoring substances which will more and more affect the things we eat.

Sage for stuffing, for instance, will be unobtainable. Sage is grown in many parts of Canada and the United States, but dealers will not trouble to handle it because the quality is nothing like that from which the world usually obtains its supply. The best sage came from Yugoslavia, and that country is in the hands of the Germans. Nazis will have sage stuffing for their Christmas turkey—if they have turkey. The price of sage used to be seven cents a pound; now it is $1.15.

There will be no bay leaves for pickling, the Germans have that. They came from Greece. Greece is also the world's largest source of currants. There will be no currants for puddings.

Other things affected by the war are pepper and cinnamon, also coming from war areas. Various other spices, etc. come from Spain, West Africa, and the West Indies and tropical America, but those named will be scarce and dear, or unobtainable. How the habits of a nation can be altered by the sinking of a single ship is shown by the fact that when a dive bomber sank a big freighter in the Mediterranean some months ago sufficient sage, thyme and bay leaves were lost that would have supplied Canada for a long year.

Germans have access to a lot of flavoring for food that they have not got.

Fortunately, Germany cannot win the war on sage and bay leaves.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Japan's Air Strength

Aeronautics Authority Says Both Japan And Industry Are Weak

Japan's "air industry is woefully weak and her air force is of low offensive strength," Lucien Zacharoff, aeronautics authority, writes in the September issue of the magazine "Aviation."

He questions whether the Japanese air force would be a factor in defending its own cities.

The first-line air strength he places at no more than 5,000 planes and possibly at only 3,000. He says the island empire's personnel is probably 5,000.

"The quality of their education may be appraised by the fact, admitted by Tokyo observers, that even in training schools are graduating a total of much fewer than 1,000 pilots a year."

"The quality of their education may be appraised by the fact, admitted by Tokyo observers, that even in training schools are graduating a total of much fewer than 1,000 pilots a year."

Most of the leading Japanese military aircraft types are called obsolete or obsolescent by Zacharoff. Production of military planes of all types, including trainers, is about 250 a month, he stated.

Current United States production, as announced by the bureau of production management, is about 1,500.

The writer rates Far East Soviet air contingents as more powerful than Japan's and Netherlands-British air power in the Pacific is greater than that of the Japanese navy.

Receives Highest Award

R.A.F. Squadron Leader Won V.C. For Daring Raid On Bremen

Acting Wing-Commander Hughie Edward Edwards, the man who interrupted many German telephone conversations as he led his R.A.F. squadron in a roof-top day raid on Bremen, was awarded the V.C., states the London Daily Sketch.

Edwards, Australian born, had received his first decoration—the D.F.C.—only three weeks before he headed that daring attack on Germany's most heavily defended port early in August.

He knew the Nazis would be ready for him. But that did not stop him diving so low that he severed telephone wires.

Know Where To Go

Friendless German Girl Gets Justice In English Court

A fair-headed German woman looked back at the figure of Justice as she left the humped Old Bailey and remarked: "I think the sun is shining doubly on English Justice to-day."

An English jury of seven had accepted her word against that of her mistress, Mrs. Heather Campbell Grenville Holmes, 45-year-old wife of a former army captain.

Mrs. Holmes was found guilty of fraudulently converting £140—her German cook's life savings—which had been entrusted to her for safe custody.

She was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. It was stated that restitution of £140 had been made by her husband, who paid the money out of his own resources.

Miss Irma Muller, aged 41, had no one to turn to when she found her mistress would not give her back her money. Her family live in Germany, and her brother Eugen is in the German Labor Corps.

She was completely alone in a foreign country, but she had the courage to tell the police.

Miss Muller had been working for Mrs. Holmes for about 6 months when she was persuaded to draw her savings from the Post Office Savings Bank.

Mrs. Holmes told her that in an internment rush she would not have time to draw it out, and that it would be taken from her.

Miss Muller gave her evidence in slow, faltering English, and when the Common Sergeant, Cecil Whitley, K.C., asked her why she went to the police, she replied in a quiet voice, "Who else could help me?"

Summing up, the judge told the jury of a similar case at the Old Bailey in the third year of the last war. A jury then had to consider a case affecting the credibility of an enemy alien.

Lord Coleridge told that jury that in the centre of this great city stood the chief criminal court, and on its dome, reared high above the busy hum, stood the dominant figure of the Goddess of Justice.

In one hand she held a sword, to smite down the evil-doer, and in the other the scales of justice. He asked the jury, in considering the case, not to let any prejudice disturb the even balance of these scales.

Miss Muller afterwards told me, "I think English justice is marvelous. I first told my troubles to a Czech friend, and he advised me that the police would help me."

So a friendless German met justice in England.—Overseas Daily Mail.

APRON IN THREE GAY VERSIONS

By ANN ADAMS

Whether you run a household yourself or just like to make useful gifts, here's a style to lead your sewing list: Pattern 4803 is a cheery, easy-to-make Anne Adams apron in three versions. All have smooth "upped" waistbands, non-slipping straps and optional pockets. Apron A shows a pointed neckline and ricrac trim. The other two versions have scalloped necklines and bodices cut in with the front shoulder straps. Doesn't Apron C look dainty with its scalloped edge, ribbon-laced bodice and heart-shaped pockets? Make up all three styles!

Pattern 4803 is available in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38) and large (40-42). Small size, apron A, takes 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 1 yard ricrac; apron C, 1 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 8 yards lace edging; apron B, 2 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric.

Send twenty cents (.20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly for name, address and style number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

REVELATION: A MESSAGE TO PERSECUTED CHURCHES

Golden text: Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life. Revelation 2:10.

Lesson: Revelation 1-3. Devotional reading: Psalm 94:15-22.

Explanations and Comments

A Message to the Church at Ephesus. Revelation 2:1-7. The letters to the churches are written as if dictated by the living Christ. Recall the fact that the book begins: "The revelation of Jesus Christ which He gave him to show unto his servants."

The writer, like the prophets of old, is very sure that he knows the mind of Christ and that he is speaking for him.

The plan of each letter to the church is: first a commendatory statement; then a censure, a call to repentance and a warning; and at the end a promise to the overcomer. The message to the Church at Ephesus may be paraphrased as follows:

"I know your toil and patient suffering. Also that you do not tolerate wicked men; you have tested those who tried to pass themselves off as apostles but are not. You proved them false. You have patiently borne burdens for my sake and have not grown weary. 'Very good. But this I know—You do not love me as you once did. You are fallen from a great height. Repent at once and act as you formerly did or I will remove your candlestick out of its place. This is in your favor, we both have the Nicolaitan sect but what kind is not known). Give heed to what the spirit says to the church—If you do not repent, I will give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the Paradise of God."

The church of Ephesus is commended for its labors, its patience, its unweariness, and special mention is made of its treatment of false prophets. So Ignatius (martyred 116 A.D.) praised them, writing to them: "I have learned that certain persons passed through you from yonder, bringing evil doctrine, whom ye suffered to stay in your midst, for ye stopped your ears, so that ye might not receive the seed sown by them."

Despite all these good qualities, the church at Ephesus was on the down-grade. Its spiritual capital was being used up, it had departed from its first love, both for God and for one another, and in its lukewarmness was in danger of ceasing to be a true Christian church. Their condition called for repentance, for a return to works such as had been inspired by their first love. If they fail to repent, their candlestick will be removed, that is, the church will be cast out as an end. We know that the church prospered for centuries, but to-day only ruins testify to its former existence.

Wanted To Help

Norwegian Woman Had Best Of Explanations For Gestapo

This story has arrived from the seaport of Bergen, says News of Norway. A party of German soldiers in an automobile, apparently in a state of hilarity, came driving at great speed through the streets of Bergen and down to the waterfront. But there, instead of halting or turning, they continued straight on and plunged to the bottom of the harbor.

Shortly afterwards the Gestapo rounded up some Norwegians who had witnessed the accident, questioning first of all a stalwart fishwife on the quay.

"You saw the soldiers coming, didn't you? And you saw they were headed for the water?"

"Yes," admitted the woman. "Then why didn't you stop them?"

"Yes, stop them?" she replied. "Why, I thought they were on their way to England."

Slightly On Long Side

The recruits were being given clothes and kit at the barracks. They were then paraded on the square for the inspection by the sergeant. "Any complaints?" he called out.

"Yes," answered one recruit promptly. "What is it?" asked the sergeant. "It's my trousers."

"What's the matter?" asked the sergeant. "I can't see anything wrong with them."

"Perhaps you can't see anything wrong, but I feel something wrong—they're chafing me under my arms."

Need Hotels For Wounded

Germans were urged to postpone their vacations until winter with the explanation that, "several hundred thousand hospital beds have been installed in numerous hotels and are not available for transients."

PROPER NUTRITION NEEDED

Nutritional surveys recently conducted in Canadian cities, show that "at least two-fifths of the Canadian population are now living on food supplies which, in nutritive value, lie between the low level required to produce deficiency diseases and the high level necessary for health," says a writer in the Canadian Public Health Journal. He adds: "continued substance on such meagre diets causes lowered vitality, decreased working ability and abnormal resistance to disease."

This condition is due, not to lack of foodstuffs, he declares, but to poverty in some cases, the absence of nutritional values in a greater number.

Applying these facts to war conditions, the writer asserts that, "The preservation and improvement of the health of every Canadian is a vital part of the war effort; health cannot be maintained without adequate nutrition."

He points this moral by citing a special camp run by the British Government, in which 729 men out of 834 rejected by the army as physically unfit, were restored by proper meals, light exercise and a healthy environment, and were subsequently classed as fit for front line duties.

Further asserting that faulty nutrition has been the most important cause of rejection in the United States, he voices an urgent call for a national and immediate program to improve nutrition in Canada. "It is the patriotic duty of every Canadian housewife to see that her family is properly fed," he declares.

London May Buy Itself

In Order To Plan And Rebuild A Finer City

No city so far as we can recall, has ever gone out and bought itself. London is thinking of some such plan, says the Evening Standard.

Across and across of the very centre of London have been levelled clear by the German bombing. Terrible though that is, it offers a unique opportunity for the rebuilding that will come after the war.

British planners are determined that London shall not merely rise again as it was, but rise a new, a better and finer city. If old lines of streets and property ownership have been rendered meaningless by the bombing, why regard them in building the new London? So there has even been advanced a plan for the city to buy from its present owners 673 acres of the heart of London, that the rebuilding may not be hampered by private claims and obstructions.

Does it sound fantastic for a city thus to "buy itself"? No doubt, but in the tremendous shakings of war, the old order of things, lo-day, stranger things will happen.

Tribute To Great Man

Late Arthur Purvis Gave His Best To Help Empire

The outbreak of the war found Arthur Purvis a great and growing figure in the industrial life of Canada. A wealthy man with a distinctive and attractive personality, plus a real genius for making friends, his position here was a most happy one which he could have enjoyed in ever-increasing measure. But an organizing genius such as his, backed by the blazing patriotism of an Englishman who remembered the last war, could not rest out of the service of his country. His duty lay clear before him; everything he felt he must do found instant and ardent echo in the mind of his wife, who made every possible sacrifice to assist him in his war work.—Montreal Star.

Treatment For Pilots

CHAPTER XXII

In the week that followed, Devona deliberately kept herself too busy to think, too weary to wrestle with the problems that beset her. Sometimes she'd face it all out, decide what she must do. But not so long as there was work in which to bury herself. Numbly by fatigue, the ache in her heart seemed gone. And might have lain dormant had not fate or chance or coincidence, perhaps, stepped in to rouse her in spite of her weariness.

It had been a busy evening—a festa day for Los Angeles, and a hilarious evening for the popular El Mexicano. Macias, his black eyes marring, had seen the patrons crowd in, gay spiritists prodigals. And Devona and the Troubadours had sung and played themselves to exhaustion, trying to answer every request, contributing much to the festive spirit.

So weary her eyes felt glazed, her voice sounding strangely far off, Devona was standing under a spotlight when Talbot Brasher and George Barnard appeared from the cocktail lounge. So unutterably tired, she didn't trust her senses, she thought for a moment that she only imagined it. But as they stood watching her, obviously waiting for her to finish her number, to step down toward them from the platform, she finally realized this was no dream.

"Devona Babourne!" Talbot said under cover of the thunder of applause.

"Hello," she managed with what she hoped was a natural smile. "Good evening Mr. Barnard."

"What in the devil are you doing here?" Talbot demanded abruptly.

"Singing. And—," she shrugged, the little laugh at him, "the devil had nothing to do with it. Just necessity."

"What you're supposed to be in school in San Francisco—studying music?" he protested. "Not—this!" He glanced around the crowded, smoke-filled room. "My God, not this!"

Devona stiffened defiantly. "And what's the matter with this?"

"Well—nothing, of course," he said hastily, "but—for you, You don't belong—"

"But I do," she scowled. "Isn't there some place we can go? I've got to talk to you."

She shook her head. "I can't leave now. But we can sit here—," and she led the way to her own small table hidden by the cluster of potted palms that marked the make-believe patio.

"Now tell me: What happened?" Talbot demanded as soon as they were seated.

But before she could answer, Barnard asked, characteristically, "Does Vars know what you're up to?"

She shook her head. "No and she won't—unless you tell her."

Barnard's grin deepened the cavernous lines in his face. "Don't worry, I shan't open my face. She has enough to worry about as it is."

"But—," Talbot's thin, artistic face was still anxious, "you? Tell me, Devona—what?"

"There's nothing much to tell," she shrugged. "I decided that I didn't belong in Vars's life and that the sooner I got out the better it would be. Disappearing made it simpler for all concerned, I think."

Barnard approved with a nod. "Smart girl. You were right, too."

"But Vars thinks you are—"

"Please, let's talk about you," she suggested when she could no longer bear the sympathetic concern in Talbot's eyes. "About the play. Tell me."

His face lighted for an instant, then the shadows fell again, as Barnard said, "We open at the Playhouse next Saturday night."

"And probably close the following Monday," Talbot gloomed. "The play stinks. But, of course, Vars's marvelous."

Devona's laugh bubbled up spontaneously for the first time in weeks.

"Still the same incorrigible optimist, aren't you, Tal?" she teased, slipping back for the moment to the self she'd been some four faithful months ago.

"It won't fail," Barnard said gravely, but Devona wasn't too sure he really believed that himself.

Tal turned to her, his enthusiasm betraying the cynicism of a moment ago. "Haven't you ever read it?"

"No never."

"I'll send you a copy. And—will you come to the opening?" Drawing a small packet of five tickets from his pocket, he pressed two of them into her hand. "Please, I want you to. I'd appreciate it, really. Will you promise?"

So she promised: "I'll try."

Then before the two men left, Tal said, his dark eyes huge in his thin face. "Please let me know if there's anything I can do to help Devona."

After all, I hate having you here," he glanced at the noisy group celebrating at the next table. "This is no place for a sweet little kid like you."

Devona smiled. Who, now ago, had first told her that? Now, she smiled at his brother. "Tal, darling, I'm not a little kid any longer but I'll try to keep 'sweet,' don't you worry."

His hand on her arm tightened affectionately. "You do just that. I'll be back often to see you."

"And—," anxiously she glanced from one to the other. "—you'll both keep my secret from—Vars?"

"Sure will. You're a wise girl. I wish you luck," Barnard nodded approvingly.

Resting her chin on one hand, Devona watched them weave a trail through the crowd toward the foyer. George Barnard, tall, a little stooped, zealous in his guardianship of Vars and her temperament, was glad Devona solved her own problems—no matter how.

Talbot Brasher, neurotic, sensitive, high-strung—was really her friend. She was sure of that. It was nice, she told herself as gratitude welled within her to thaw some of the chill around her heart. A real friend. Something she hadn't had since—well, since Dad had gone.

And something she'd probably have great need of sooner or later, her new waitress warned her as Jose Macias made his way toward her now.

"Who were your friends?" he demanded instantly, dropping into the chair beside her.

For an instant, Devona was tempted to feign ignorance. But she caught the searching suspicion in Jose's jealous eyes, and thought better of it.

"Talbot Brasher, playwright, and George Barnard, manager-director," she said, assuming indifference.

"Chumming with our young D.A.'s brother now, are you?"

Smiling a little wearily, Devona shook her head. "No, Jose. Not chumming with any one's brother. And you know it."

"I'm not so sure," his voice cut him, "but I didn't like the way you're looking at you."

Macias' fierce temper blazed quick and hot in his face, glaring it red, setting his thick lips into a hard line. Then, obviously regretting, he drew a deep breath, changed the scowl to a shy smile. "Sure. Of course. I didn't mean to make you angry, Dona." Clumsily, he patted her hand.

Relieved to see Elsie, the hat-check girl, coming toward them now, Devona was more relieved that the girl brought a message that some one was waiting to see Macias. She excused him gladly.

Just what, she wondered as he made his way toward his office, would happen to her if once he let that rumper loose! Like a maddened bull, ruthless, bestial—Devona shuddered.

And anything, any one in his way, he'd simply trample to death! She was a fool to risk that. Next time, she'd better watch her tongue.

Her eyes followed him idly. Then, suddenly, her whole body stiffened. The small man waiting just outside Macias' office seemed strangely familiar.

Chances, he was obviously—slanted, almond-shaped eyes, and something about his flashy sport coat, the immaculate gray flannels jogged her memory painfully. Hat in hand, he bowed as Macias went toward him. A faint, stiff little bowing bow. It reminded her of Wong Devona's heart stopped a moment. But that ugly, repellent little Oriental would have no business here. It couldn't be, he of course.

She watched Macias scowl, glance quickly around the lobby, hunt the little man into his office quickly—almost furtively.

For an instant, she sat immobile, turning that picture this way and that in her mind, trying to get it into focus. She must be mistaken, of course. Wong would not be permitted to come here as guest. And if not as guest, then—

It was a mistake, of course. Still, there was one way to make sure. Any excuse to follow Macias into that office.

She glanced at the costly fan her fingers opened and shut idly. A loosened stone—the need to store the fan away safely.

Before she had time to reconsider, she made her way to that gray-paneled door. Tapping softly and then, deliberately not waiting for an answer, she pushed open the door, stepped into the little office.

"Pardon my butting in like this, Jose, but my fan is—," she began. Then she stopped, let the door slide shut behind her with a snap and the words of her flimsy little excuse faded in her throat. Jose was alone! Standing at the window, he whirled toward her almost fiercely. "Well—what?" he snapped, his face strangely white, his eyes smouldering dangerously.

"—that is—my fan is—a stone is loose," she stammered, trying hard to hide her own amazement as her glance travelled quickly around the tiny room. "I thought I'd better put it away before I lost it."

He eyed her suspiciously a moment. "Sure. Hand it here. I'll take care of it."

"Thanks." She tried to smile naturally, turned to open the door again.

But only when it was safely closed behind her again, did she realize how she trembled. She'd seen some one—a some one who looked like Wong—go into that room. He couldn't have come out without her having met him, face to face. So—and the realization brought a shuddering premonition racing along her spine—some one else knew about that secret passage now!

What's in a Name

Wrong Word Did Not Keep Man From Enjoying Pie

In a Toronto restaurant a pert and affable young lady sat down beside a benign, fatherly appearing oldster who was consuming with obvious satisfaction a noble wedge of pie.

A quivering pale lemon delight surrounded by golden crust and topped with a mouth-watering meringue, as she told it. My goodness, the old promised herself, I've got to have some of that.

She asked her table companion what sort of pie it was. "Lemon liqueur," he replied, not batting an eye. "That doesn't sound promising," the young lady thought, and repeated the question to the nearest waitress, who said it was "Lemon chiffon, our special to-day."

"Lemon chiffon, is it?" remarked the old gentleman. "I knew it had something to do with women's clothes."

Queer Names On List

A strange assortment of names crops up in the far north where many years ago white men "sold" the distinguished "handles" to natives.

The selective service board at Fairbanks, Alaska, records, among others, the names of "Early Bird," "Bishop George Washington," "Benjamin Franklin" and "Abraham Lincoln."

Near the close of the Civil War coffee sold for $3 a cup in Richmond, Va.

IF ALL OTHER INVASION ATTEMPTS FAIL

Britain is prepared to use it if necessary.

Britain is prepared to make use of her lush green grass if food supplies run low, says Prof. D. B. Johnston-Wallace of Cornell University.

"We may find grass may play a very important part in this war," Prof. Johnston-Wallace told the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs.

"Large factories are already producing dried grass powder and it is being fed to animals. It will soon be fed to human beings if they are wise."

Prof. Johnston-Wallace has eaten grass himself. Mixed half-and-half with flour and baked into soda scones, green grass is nutritious and tastes "really fine."

One-seventh of the total area of Ireland is peat bog.

Drought in Alaska

South-Eastern Part Has Been Unusually Dry This Year

It's getting so dry in south-eastern Alaska that ships are hauling water out to the lighthouses.

And man and boy, it hasn't been that dry since they built those sea beacons. The natives, conservative in matters meteorological, are getting primed to start calling it a drought.

There was just .76 of an inch rainfall in August compared to the August average of 11.57. Temperatures ranged through the 70's to a peak of 80.

The Cape Decision light station on Kulu Island is without water after drying up of two lakes on the island.

The U.S. coast guard cutters Ne-maha and Cyane are engaged in transporting water to the Cape Decision, Guard Island, Tree Point and Eldred Rock lighthouses. Normally they are served by lakes or rainwater reservoirs.

Canneries and mines also have been caught in the pinch. The Cold Standard mine on nearby Helm Bay suspended operations because of the water shortage, which one of the owners said was the worst he had seen in his 40 years in the north.

Pumps have moved the normally rain-washed town of Ketchikan from a critical water situation.

The canneries, with growing supplies of canned salmon piling up on the docks because there is as much a shortage of ships as of rain, are in a proverbial dilemma. They need rain for their operations but it would damage the stocks on the docks.

Anyway you look at it, they seem to be over a rain-barrel.

Cleaning Out Grain Separators

WM Do Much Toward Preventing New Weed Infestations

Though remarkably efficient for threshing the grain separator is the most difficult of all farm implements to clean. Custom machines are rarely cleaned out thoroughly and are consequently responsible for many new weed infestations. The seed grower has to face the added danger of admixtures of varieties, and the risk of pollution is so great that most growers have found it necessary to have their own machines. Even then their problem is aggravated because of the inaccessibility of many parts of the machine, which are difficult to clean.

No part of the machine should be regarded as clean because a superficial examination reveals no weed seeds or grain, states E. C. Stacey, Assistant Superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Beaverford, Alta. Any lodged or crushed material and dried grass should be removed and the pockets of adjustable chaffers dug out. Most troublesome is lifted metal or cracked wood, which invariably carries its load. Such places should be repaired as thoroughly as possible before the run commences. Cylinder bars collect an unbelievable load of dust and seed with even a very short run. The hinged stacker makes the decks fairly accessible but no place is easy to clean.

Many seed growers after several clean-outs which amounted to a virtual dismantling and rebuilding have found grain coming from the machines. When such is the case how insufficient must be the average work.

Economy of time does not always permit an extensive cleaning, but the machine should have careful treatment before the run starts. Then after threshing each field the machine should be run till empty and augers and screens, well cleaned. Afterwards it may be advisable to catch the first few drums separately when starting up again. Seed grain demands even more careful clean-out. In the latter case the use of an air blast may be necessary.

Th outside of the machine needs attention also, as do bundle racks and wagon gears. If any particular grower is not much concerned with the weeds that come to his own land the chances are he will not give much attention to the pollution that leaves it.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

TEMPERATENESS

The temperate are the most truly luxurious. By abstaining from many things, it is surprising how many things we enjoy.—William Gilmore Simms.

The golden rule in life is moderation in all things.—Terence.

It is certainly a very important lesson to learn how to use ordinary things, and to be able to rely on your being, without the transport of some passion, or the gratification of some appetite.—Steele.

Be temperate in thought, word, and deed. Meekness and temperance are the jewels of Love, set in wisdom.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Temperance is the firm and moderate domination of reason over passion, and other unrighteous impulses of the mind.—Cicero.

Moderate desires constitute a character fitted to acquire all the good which the world can yield.—Timothy Dwight.

Joins Exclusive Club

Soviet Ambassador To Britain is Newest Member Of St. James's

The glass eyes of the slightly mottled stevedore bear on the staircase of London's St. James's Club should have begged out in a recent week. The ghost of unseemly arrogant, agitated ex-Member George Nathaniel, Marquess Curzon of Kedleston and British Foreign Secretary of the 1920s, must have shivered in its shroud. Founded in 1707, St. James's has been for its class, its exclusiveness by Sir Joshua Reynolds, and the exclusiveness of its membership, mostly confined to diplomats from the top-most social drawer. A tourist price once had £10,000 in its card room.

The tradition-shattering new member was short, thick, athletic Ivan Mikhailovich Malinsky, 57, Soviet Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, whose moon face, chucking dark eyes and ragged imperial whiskers looked him look like a small-time conjuror of the old school.

HOME SERVICE

NO SACRIFICE TO REDUCE ON THE LOW-CALORY DIET

Even Desserts Are Allowed

The plump lady who bravely refuses dessert to reduce, yet gets plumper every day!

It does seem a puzzle, but if the lady isn't caloric-wise it's quite easy to understand.

A caloric chart shows it isn't always the "tempters" that have the fat-making calories; lots of innocent-looking foods teem with them. Then, there are the low-calorie foods on which you can lose 20 pounds in 10 weeks!

Yes, you're right to refuse Charlotte, Russ (300 calories) and fruit punch (227 calories). But then don't go home and eat generously of such foods as breaded veal cutlet (250 a serving) and lima beans (200 a cup).

Cleverly choose the low-calorie snacks at your parties. Chocolate loaf cake has only 100 calories in a modest piece. Lemonade only 72 a glass. In your meals substitute the same way. Roast veal has only 100 calories a serving, string beans 42 a cup.

You'll really enjoy living, getting slim on full-sized meals! Our 32-page booklet has caloric chart to help you select the right dishes. Gives 42 slimming menus based on healthful protective foods, also slimming dessert recipes. Has diet for too-thin people.

Red Cross Mobile Kitchen

Viscount Bennett Presents Canadian Gift To British Home Secretary

The first of a fleet of mobile kitchens the Canadian Red Cross is giving Britain's national fire services is presented by Viscount Bennett to Herbert Morrison, home secretary.

The presentation was on the foreign office quadrangle off Downing street. High Commissioner Vincent Massey also participated.

Blue uniformed men and women fire-fighters were drawn up at the side of the five-ton motorized kitchen, capable of turning out warm meals for more than 200 persons under all conditions.

The former Canadian prime minister, in making the presentation, said the gift shows "the interest of Canadians in the well-being of those in Britain who risk their lives that lives may be saved."

Major F. S. Jackson, chief commissioner of the London fire service, in turn accepting the kitchen from Mr. Morrison, said: "The people of Canada have found out what we really want now. It is a gift which is most needed and makes one most happy and most grateful."

Will Need Convincing

After the selection of the Atlantic as a safe, convenient, quiet place for a conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, Dr. Goebbels will have to work very hard to re-convince the German people that Nazi submarines and long range bombers virtually control that ocean.

The Last Year's Look

In London, clothing limitations have sent men to raiding their attics for old costumes with remodeling possibilities.

It is claimed, in fact, that it's doubtful that, over there, to have a sort of "last year's" look.

Applies To All Bread

The wartime prices and trade board announced, in August, order forbidding sale of sliced bread in Canada applies to bread in any form, including bread rolls made from unsweetened dough.
